Let music swell
the breeze,
And ring from all the trees
Sweet freedom's song;
Let mortal tongues awake,
Let all that breathe partake,
Let rocks their silence break,—
The sound prolong.

Our fathers' God,
to thee,
Author of liberty,
To thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light, Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King

Oh, say, can you see by the dawn's early light, What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming,

Whose broad Stripes and bright Stars
thro' the perilous fight, O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets' red glare,
the bombs bursting in air, Gave proof thro' the night that our Flag was still there.
Oh, say does that Star-Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the Land of the Free
and the Home of the Brave?

O'n the shore dimly seen thro' the mists of the deep;
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes;
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses;
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam:
In full glory reflected, now shines on the stream—
'Tis the Star-Spangled Banner, Oh! long may it wave.
O'er the Land of the Free, and the Home of the Brave!

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore,
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion
A home and a country shall leave us no more?—
Their blood has washed out their foul footsteps' polution!

No refuge could save the hireling and slave,
From the terror of flight,
or the gloom of the grave;
And the Star-Spangled Banner
in triumph doth wave,
O'er the Land of the Free
and the Home of the Brave.

Oh thus be it ever when Freemen shall stand, Between their Loved Home, and the war's desolation:
Blest with victory and peace,
may the Heaven-rescued Land, Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a Nation: Then conquer we must,
when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto:
"—In God is Our Trust"—
And the Star-Spangled Banner
in triumph shall wave,
O'er the Land of the Free
and the Home of the Brave.

When war winged its wide desolation,
And threatened the land to deform,
The ark then of freedom's foundation,
Columbia rode safe through the storm;
With her garlands of vict'ry around her,
When so proudly she bore her brave crew,
With her flag proudly floating before her,
The boast of the red, white and blue.
